

Andrew Jones

I build data platforms that reduce risk and drive revenue. Guaranteed, with data contracts.

Who am I

I've been working in the industry for 20 years, specialising in building data platforms for the last 10 years.

In 2021 I created data contracts, an architectural pattern that brings data teams closer to the business, drives team autonomy, and embeds quality and governance as part of the data platform. I wrote the definitive book on data contracts in 2023.

I'm based near London, UK, am a regular writer and public speaker, and have worked with organisations in the US, Europe, and Asia.

My services

Training

I offer both public and bespoke training courses that, through a mix of instructor-led and hands-on exercises, teach you everything you need to know to implement data contracts in your organisation.

Assessments and reviews

I provide assessments and reviews of your current data platform and what it would take to get it to where you need to go. These include:

- Architectural reviews
- Program and Roadmap reviews
- Readiness assessments

Advisory services

No one has more experience deploying data contracts and using them to transform a business than I do.

I provide ongoing support to you, your team, and your organisation to help you make the right tactical and strategic decisions for your data architecture, while transferring my knowledge and experience to your team.

Download my FREE Data Contracts 101 eBook from <https://dc101.io>

andrew@andrew-jones.com

<https://andrew-jones.com>